NEW AND DESIRABLE FALL DRY GOODS. THE Subscribers are now opening the largest and most desirable lot of goods they have ever offered to the public, consisting of rich Silk, from 50 cents to $5 per yard; Siousselines, from 12½c. to $1.25; English and French Merinoss, Raw Silks, Mousseline de Baga; Plain Mousselines, all shades; Ladies Sacks; Cloths and Flannes; and every kind of goods appertaining to the dry-goods trade. The public are requested to call and look at them before pur chasing elsewhere. MAGRUDER & CALVERT.

CHILLS AND FEVERS. Tis seldom we see a radical cure in fever and ague, under the common treatment of quinins, arsenic, and patent medicines so highly extolled by physicians. There are objections to the general use of quinine, as some has been found to contain arsenic, and the use of it has been followed by swelling of the face, spless, liver, &c. Another objection is, the disease is very liable to resur, upon slight exposure or fatigue. The patient will find a permanent cure, or the money refunded, at the German Medical Office of Doctors BEOTHERS & GRAY, opposite the Smithsonian Institution, Island.

SHADES OF CHARACTER, OR THE INFANT PILGRIM.

OR THE INFANT PILGRIM.

BY ANNE WOODROFFE, author of "Michael Kemp." In two volumes. R. Carter & Brothers.

"A charming book, full of deep, true, and glowing sentiment, with lively glimpses of character, pen-portraits and sketches, which keep the interest ever alive, and withal wise instruction is so happily blended that the pleasure of the book is only equalled by its profit. It is a better book than "The Wide, Wide World," which has been so widely and justly popular, and we are sure that those who read this will be glad that we have called their attention to it."— er kinds, when tested by the weight and burnt in a suitable manner.

Transition Coal

An apprehension exists with some that the free-burning coals have a tendency to clinker. Now, as a general rule, no coal will clinker unless greater draught be applied to it than the coal naturally requires. No one would think of applying a bellows constantly to a fire made of seasoned hiekory or oak wood, and it would be equally as absurd to apply a blast constantly to a free-burning coal. But the heavy white ash anthractes cannot be burnt without a powerful draft, and without using a larger quantity of coal than the temperature of the weather sometimes requires. Various patterns of stoves, furnaces, cooking ranges, &a., are invented annually to conquer this difficulty, but it has never been done with complets success. In every courtivance, however, which has been invented to burn coal, the transition variety will make a beautiful fire, and no complaint will ever be made to a manufacturer or seller of grates or stoves when this coal is used. The draft alone is to be regulated by a damper. In introducing this new coal for the first time, prepared as it now is by steam power machinery for domestic use, it may give greater confidence to the buyer to say that the celebrated free-burning red ash veins in the Peach Orchard district, near Pottaville, are a continuation of the Dauphin teins, and they approach the nearest in value to the Transition coal.

Shipments of the Transition coal have already been made

WESLEY AND HIS COADJUTORS.

SELDOM have I taken up a book of biography with which I have been so well pleased and really profited as with Wesley and his Coadjutors, by Prof. Larrabee. Those pure pages sparkle like diamonds, with strangs as well as beautiful incidents, touching in turn every chord of the human heart, and arousing its latent energies to deeds of noble daring. Wesley is exhibited as he really was, a most wonderful man; wonderful principally as an agent of Providence in reviving pure religion in the world.

The second volume opens with Charles Wesley, that prince of lyric poets, who is made to pass before the reader so well-defined that he seems to see his form and hear his voice, and be thrilled with his sublime hymns, a rich legacy left to the Church in all after time.

Whittefield, the percless crator and devoted Christian, mext appears, with his matchless powers, arousing Great Britain and America with an eloquence and unction that literally bore down all before it, turning the people to God by thousands, till from the most degraded—degraded because forsaken of their religious teachers—plants of right-cousness were seen springing up and adorning the garden of the Lord. John Fletcher closes the list of notable worthies in the two volumes before us, and every way worthy is he to do it. He is made to pass along in his own incomparable, beautiful simplicity, with a holiness all but superhuman, possessing talents that an angel might have envied; the soutest and ablest controversialist writer of his own or any subsequent age.—Zion's Herald.

The humble writer of this brief sketch of the lamented dead. knew him well. Dr. Young was born in Portsmouth, Va., in the year 1864, and was at the time of his death a little over forty-eight years of age. In his profession as a medical gentleman few, if any, surpassed him in the science. The Doctor was for many years a Magistrate of the county of Norfolk, and, for a considerable time, was a member of the Legislature of Virginia—in his official acts he gave entire satisfaction to his friends.
